WHY THE LIBERTY LOAN INTEREST RATE WAS CHANGED

The first issue of Liberty Loan Bonds bears 3 1/2 per cent interest and are exempt from all taxes of every kind except estate and inheritance taxes. Liberty Loan Bonds of the second issue bear 4 per cent interest and have the same tax exemptions as the first, except that they are liable to superincome taxes and excess-profit taxes, as well as estate and inheritance taxes. They are not subject to the normal income tax. The reasons for the change of interest and taxability are stated by Secretary McAdoo in his speech before the American Bankers' Association as follows:

"We can not sell bonds in billions on the basis of what they may be worth to the very rich. They must be offered to all the people alike at one price and should appeal to all alike and upon equal terms. The result of selling a bond which bears interest and carries exemption from graduated and superincome taxes will be that the poor and the people of modest means will buy them for patriotic reasons but will be unable to hold them because the return is too small. The tendency will be all the time for these bonds to be purchased from them and accumulated by the very rich without any adequate consideration moving from them either to the United States or to the original subscribers. In these circumstances the value of the tax exemption depends not upon the bonds themselves but upon a wholly extraneous fact—the extent of the wealth of the holder.

"The principle is now firmly grounded in our national policy that graduated taxes shall be laid upon wealth in order that the burden of taxation may be equitably distributed and made to bear more heavily upon the rich than the poor. Government bonds, therefore, should be issued upon a basis which will be equally just to the poor man and the rich man, so that each may purchase these bonds upon practically the same interest basis after allowing for the different scales of taxation.

"The second issue of Liberty Loan Bonds are offered upon terms fair and equitable to all alike and will make the widest possible appeal to all the people without regard to the extraneous fact that the purchases be poor or rich. The government can not finance this war by making an appeal alone to the rich, nor to the man of moderate means, nor to the poor. Its appeal must be to all of the people, and all of the people must respond and by united efforts sustain the Government in its great credit operations."
